Toppo Side Grip

The Toppo Side Grip is a mobile pallet changer designed to transfer loads from one pallet to another without tilting or inverting and can also be used to split stacked loads.

The Toppo Side Grip uses two plates covered with high-density neoprene rubber to gently secure the product on two sides, which allows the product to be lifted off one pallet and transferred to another.

This model is equipped with an electric drive, which allows the unit to be quickly moved and used in various locations. The Toppo Side Grip does not require dedicated floor space or permanent electrical connection.

Toppo Advance MPI

Toppo Advance MPI is a versatile machine for replacing pallets, turning and transporting loads. The unit is motorized and self-propelled. This feature allows it to be used in various locations. Once in position, it lifts and turns the load in less than one minute.

The load can be turned and the pallet replaced with or without applying pressure. Toppo Advance MPI does not require dedicated floor space or a permanent electrical connection. Toppo Advance MPI is available in a wide-base configuration for closed-bottom pallets.
